The considerable interest from international companies in lasting economic relations with Iran was also very evident at this year's event. Many international and national market leaders who supply products and services to the construction and mining industries were represented at the 8th IranConMin. Once again, IranConMin has further strengthened its position as the most important event for the construction and mining industries, and for building materials in Iran and the entire region. The accompanied special showcase IranStone was a hit with exhibitors and visitors alike. Because of this success and the promising prospects, and in view of the exhibitors' wishes, it was decided to launch IRAN STONE MAC as an independent, annual event, starting in 2009.
